FOR GENERAL INFORMATION

Berkeley City Auditor, Anna Rabkin, released a longitudinal study done by Cal-in-Berkeley student interns of Berkeley City Council Elections: Cost, Contribution and Voting Trends 1986-92. The study found that:

1. City Council elections are becoming more expensive
2. There is less competition for Council seats
3. More women are winning Council elections
4. Women are receiving higher average contributions than men
5. Male representation on the City Council has dropped drastically
6. Non-caucasian representation is limited to African-Americans
7. Berkeley election turn-out is decreasing
8. Drop-off between voter turn-out and votes cast for Council increased

The attached report presents data gathered by Cal-in-Berkeley interns on Berkeley City Council elections for the period 1986-1992. Berkeley switched from citywide elections to district elections in 1986. Eight council districts were established. This report presents data on elections for council seats only. Data gathered for the last citywide election of councilmembers is presented for information.

The City Auditor's Office in 1989 initiated a multi-year Cal-in-Berkeley intern project to try to answer some of the questions raised about the effect of district elections in Berkeley. The interns participating in the study were Alfonso G. Castillo, Maria Luisa P. Arevalo, Andrew Green, and most recently Mwosi Swenson and Annissa Deshpande.

ELECTION DATA SUMMARY 1986-1992

Table 1 presents a summary of the district election data. The contribution and expenditure totals were obtained from campaign filings. In some filings the interns identified inaccuracies and corrected them. All financial information is shown in 1982 constant dollars.

INTRODUCTION

This report presents data gathered by Cal-in-Berkeley interns on Berkeley City Council elections for the period 1986-1992. Berkeley switched from citywide elections to district elections in 1986. Eight council districts were established. This report presents data on elections for council seats only. Data gathered for the last citywide election of councilmembers is presented for information.

BACKGROUND

The City Auditor's office in 1989 initiated a multi-year Cal-in-Berkeley project to try to answer some of the questions raised about the effect of district elections in Berkeley. The project sought data to answer these questions objectively. The financial data was gathered from the individual candidates' campaign disclosure statements and the City Clerk's voting records. The information is limited to data available at the required second campaign filing. Late contributions which are filed separately, are not included. Campaign expenditures made on behalf of candidates by independent groups was not gathered and are not included.

The initial focus of the project was to compare at-large-election results to those of district elections. However, this approach had to be abandoned because the interns found a lack of historical data in the Clerk's office. One of the first interns stated: "...there is a lack of hard and reliable campaign finance and election data for the years when Berkeley practiced at-large elections for the city council since the city maintains the campaign finance reports for only 5 years and then destroys them." The only data that was available for at-large elections was for 1984. As a result of this discovery, the focus was changed to a trend analysis.

Appendix I presents the 1984 citywide council election data which the interns obtained.

Appendices II, III, IV and V present the council election data by districts.

ELECTION DATA SUMMARY 1986-1992

Table 1 presents a summary of the district election data. The contribution and expenditure totals were obtained from campaign filings. In some filings the interns identified inaccuracies and corrected them. All financial information is shown in 1982 constant dollars.

ANALYSIS OF FINANCIAL AND VOTE DATA

Costs

Constant dollars are used throughout this analysis to correct for inflation over the years and provide greater comparability.

In 1986, the first election for City Council by district, expenditures were $143,305. In the last citywide election in 1984 (a presidential election year) expenditures totaled $106,033. The most significant change was in the cost per vote. In 1984 total votes cast for Council were 201,940. The cost per vote was 51 cents. When adjusted for the fact that in 1984 each voter could vote for 4 candidates citywide that cost averages $2.04. In 1986 total votes cast for Council were 44,369. The cost per vote was $3.23.

The cost trend since 1984 is an upward one. The reported expenditures for 1986 were $134,193. In 1992 they were $172,337.

A partial explanation for the significant increase in 1992 expenditures is the very high ($31,163 and $27,200) campaign expenditures in District 1 (Casey) and 6 (Olds).

The 1988, due largely to three uncontested races, the total expenditures dropped to $78,995. The per vote cost was also the lowest for district elections.

Voting

Although Berkeley still has a significantly higher turn out than the national average a lower voter turn-out appears to be the trend over the period reviewed. In non-presidential election years when the turn out is lower, it was 52,930 in 1982 (68% of registered voters), 49,988 (64%) in 1986 and in 1990 it was 47,393 (64%).

In presidential election years the turn-out is higher. In 1984 it was 62,090 (75% of those registered to vote) and in 1988 it was 58,641 (74%). The citywide vote went up in 1992 to 60,124. However the percentage of those casting votes was 70% of those registered to vote.

There is a drop-off between votes cast for council district candidates compared to total ballots cast. Although in 1986, the first year of district elections, that drop-off was only 11% - since that election a 17% drop-off is the average. It should be noted that uncontested races result in lower votes in the individual districts. However, the reduction in votes cast for council in those districts is only a partial explanation of the drop-off.

When 1986 district results are compared to those in 1990 (both non-presidential election years) only two districts (#1 and #5) had higher vote totals in 1990 - six had lower totals. However, comparing 1988 to 1992 (both presidential election years)

Consistent dollars are used throughout this analysis to correct for inflation over the years and provide greater comparability.

In 1996, the first election for the City Council by district, expenditures were $143,000. In the last citywide election in 1992, the total expenditures for candidates were $100,000. The most significant change was in the cost per vote. In 1992, the cost per vote for the Council was $0.15. The cost per vote was $0.25 in 1996. When adjusted for the fact that in 1996 each voter could vote for 4 candidates instead of just one, the average $1.04. In 1992 each vote for Council was $0.25. The cost per vote was $2.32.

The cost trend since 1992 is an upward one. The average expenditures for 1992 were $14,193. In 1996 they were $17,567.

A partial explanation for the significant increase in 1992 expenditures is the way that (21,165 and 237,300) expenditures were in District 1 (Bishop) and District 2.

The 1992, due largely to those expenditures, the total expenditures were $17,567. The per vote cost was also the lowest for district elections.

Value

Although Berkeley still has a significantly higher cost per vote than the national average, a lower voter turnout appears to be the trend over the period reviewed. In non-presidential election years when the turnout is lower, it was 55.9% in 1992 (down from 58.3% in 1988) and in 1996 it was 57.2%.

In presidential election years the turnout is higher. In 1992 it was 61.0% (70% of those registered to vote) and in 1996 it was 64.4% (71%). The turnout vote went up in 1992 to 60.1%. However, the percentage of those casting votes was 70% of those registered to vote.

There is a drop-off between years when the turnout is lower and the turnout is higher. Although in 1992 the first year of district elections, the turnout was only 55.9% - more than a 10% drop-off in the turnout. It should be noted that the turnout rates result in lower votes in the individual districts. However, the reduction in votes only for Council in those districts is only a partial explanation of the drop-off.

When 1996 district results are compared to those in 1992, the non-presidential election years only two districts (21 and 23) had higher vote counts in 1996 - six had lower counts. However, comparing 1992 to 1996 (non-presidential election years) five districts (#3, #4, #5, #6, and #7) had higher vote totals in 1992 and three (#1, #2 and #8) had lower totals.

Only in 1986 did each council district have contested races. In 1988 district #4, #6 and #8 had uncontested elections. In 1990 district #6 and #8 had uncontested elections. In 1992 only district #8 had an uncontested election. Since 1986 district #8 has had only one contested election. In 1986 run off elections were held in districts #1, #2 and #6. In 1990 a run-off election was held in district #1 and for Mayor.

Contributions

Table 2 presents contribution data by year, gender and number of candidates. The first year of district elections male candidates received larger total contributions and average contributions. Since 1988 female candidates have received larger total and average contributions than male candidates.

Gender and ethnicity of council candidates

There were 10 women Council candidates who received more than 500 votes in 1986, 7 in 1988 and 9 respectively in 1990 and 1992. There were also 10 male Council candidates who received more than 500 votes in 1986 and 5 in 1990. In 1988 and 1992 there were 7 and 6 respectively.

When reviewing the gender of candidates who received less than 500 votes, the data shows that there were 3 female and 6 male candidates in 1986. In 1988 and 1990 there were two such candidates - both male.

In 1986 and 1988 there were 5 female Councilmembers and 3 male. In 1990 there were 6 female and 2 male Councilmembers. By 1992 there was only one Councilmember who was not female.

Two districts (64, 65, 66, 67) had higher vote totals in 1982 and three (61, 62 and 63) had lower totals.

Only in 1982 did each council district have contested races. In 1982 district 64, 65 and 66 had uncontested elections. In 1980 district 65 and 66 had uncontested elections. In 1978 only district 65 had an uncontested election. Since 1978 district 65 has had only one uncontested election. In 1982 two off elections were held in districts 61, 62 and 63. In 1980 a run-off election was held in district 61 and the Mayor.

Contributions

Table 2 presents contribution data by year, gender and number of candidates. The first year of district elections male candidates received larger total contributions and average contributions. Since 1982 female candidates have received larger total and average contributions than male candidates.

Gender and ability of council candidates

There were 10 women Council candidates who received more than 500 votes in 1982. There were 7 in 1980 and 5 respectively in 1978 and 1976. There were also 10 male Council candidates who received more than 500 votes in 1982 and 5 in 1980. In 1978 and 1976 there were 7 and 5 respectively.

When reviewing the gender of candidates who received less than 500 votes, the data shows that there were 3 female and 5 male candidates in 1982. In 1980 and 1978 there were two each - male and female.

In 1982 and 1980 there were 5 female Councilmembers and 5 male. In 1978 there were 6 female and 5 male Councilmembers. By 1976 there was only one Councilmember who was female.

The ethnic make-up of the Council has been constant since 1986 - 6 Caucasians and 2 African-Americans, both female. During this period the Mayor was a Caucasian female.

In 1984 the make up of the Council was 5 females (2 African-Americans), 4 males (2 African-Americans including the Mayor).

TRENDS

The most prominent trends found during the period under review are that elections are becoming more expensive, there is less competition for Council seats, fewer candidates are filing, more women are winning elections, women are receiving higher average contributions than male candidates, male representation has dropped drastically on the City Council, non-caucasian representation is limited to African-Americans, there is a lower turn-out at elections, and the drop-off between voter turn-out and votes cast for council has increased since 1986.

It would be useful to continue to collect the data presented in this report. The trends identified should be tracked during future elections. This data will help to determine whether the trends are self-correcting or whether some future intervention may be worth considering.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

I want to acknowledge the work done by Cal-in Berkeley interns over the years: Alfonso G. Castillo, Maria Luisa P. Arevalo, Andrew Green, Annissa Deshpande, Mwosi Swenson. Thanks are also due to the staff in the City Clerk's office.

The whole end of the Council has been constant since 1968 - 2 Candidates and 2 African Americans, both female. During this period the Mayor was a Caucasian female.

In 1984 the make up of the Council was 5 females (2 African-Americans), 4 males (2 African-Americans including the Mayor).

THINGS

The most significant trends found during the period under review are that elections are becoming more expensive, there is less competition for Council seats, fewer candidates are filing, more women are winning elections, women are winning higher average percentages than male candidates, male representatives are being dropped drastically on the City Council, and community representation is shifted to African-Americans. There is a lower turnout at elections, and the gap between voter turnout and voter cost has widened since 1988.

It would be useful to continue to collect the data presented in this report. The trends identified should be tracked during future elections. This data will help to determine whether the trends are self-correcting or whether some future intervention may be worth considering.
